KAISER'S ARMY CONTINUES TO ADVANCE, SPITE OPPOSITION

Words of Resignation On Lips of Pope Pius As He Passed to Rest

Attempted to Bestow a Blessing Upon His Grief-stricken Sisters and Others About the Bedside But Was Too Weak

MELANCHOLY SINCE WAR AND THIS HASTENED END

Change Came Suddenly After He Had Rallied, and Powerful Stimulants Were Given In Vain—Conclave for Election of Successor to Be Held September 3—News at Washington Was Shock to Papal Delegation.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Rome, Aug. 20.—"Together in all things Christian." These words which Pope Pius X adopted as his motto in an encyclical issued on August 20, 1903, six days after he had been elevated to the Pontifical were on his lips as he entered the valley of death.

The end, which came at 1:20 o'clock this morning, was peaceful. A few moments before, he had been roused from a state of semi-consciousness and he attempted to bestow a blessing upon those gathered in the chamber but his strength failed him. After a pause he murmured the scriptural text, and, did not speak again.

The death of the Pontiff, in the eightieth year of his life and the twelfth year of his pontifical, while he had been suffering from ailments incident to advanced age, nevertheless came as a shock even to those near him. For several days he had been suffering from gouty catarrh, but on Tuesday his physicians declared that the trouble was of no great importance, and yesterday morning reassuring reports concerning the patient were current.

The change came suddenly during the forenoon yesterday and early in the afternoon those in attendance announced that death was imminent. Similar attacks had been resisted with the aid of the pope's will power, but depression of the clash of arms in Europe militated against another recovery.

At 10 o'clock last night the pontiff experienced an attack of coughing that greatly distressed him. He could not move in bed without assistance and the struggle he made to breathe was painful to witness. As the supreme moment approached the coughing ceased and the restlessness which the doctors had been unable to relieve disappeared. The features of the patient which had given evidence of his pain, resumed a normal expression, except for the pallor which increased. The papal secretary of state, Cardinal Merry Del Val, Cardinals Peralta, Cagiano and Bissetti, the pope's two sisters and physicians who were at the bedside, recognized the calm preceding eternal rest. Dr. Marchisafava, his hand on the Pontiff's pulse turned toward the secretary of state and shook his head.

Cardinal Merry del Val understood and covered his face with his hands.

BLIND PRIEST HAD FORT PLANS; REPORTED SHOT

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Paris, Aug. 20.—Le Croix, the Catholic newspaper, declares that the blind bishop Mgr. Kannengieser, alleged to have been shot by the Germans at Istein in Baden, was an Alsatian and anti-German. He was accused by the German of having in his possession plans of the fortress of Istein-Glotz, where large German forces are waiting the advance of the French army now marching through upper Alsace. Istein-Glotz is regarded as almost impregnable and is the center of the ring of German fortifications in that region.

French Cabinet Faces Problem of Providing For Paris' Unemployed

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Paris, Aug. 20.—1:30 A. M.—The problem of providing work for the large number of unemployed in France today occupied the cabinet council presided over by President Poincare at the palace of the Elysee, Louis Malvy, Minister of the Interior reported that steps had been taken in collaboration with the local hands. Meantime Vanulli, the pope's niece, Gilda Parolin, Monsignor Bianchini, Mgr. Misciatelli and his secretaries, Mgr. Bressan and Mgr. Pescini, had joined the group in the chamber.

Two sisters and the pope's secretaries could not restrain their sobs and their voices seemed to bring back the Pontiff from the state of Coma into which he had lapsed. His eyes opened and his lips moved and it was plain that he was making an effort to import a final blessing. For a moment it seemed that dissolution had taken place and then his lips moved again.

"Together in one, all things Christ," he whispered. Dr. Marchisafava, released the wrist which dropped pulseless on the Pontiff's breast. The physician bent over the bed, listened for a heart that was still. "It is all over," he said and reverently kissed the Pontiff's hand. In turn the others did the same for which they intoned prayers for the dead.

Immediately after candle lights flickered in all the windows of the vatican and the whole personnel of the apostolic palace, with the permission of the papal secretary passed by the body kissing the hand of the pontiff as they passed. Throughout the night messages had been received from the heads of many states inquiring the condition of His Holiness.

The Italian premier, Signor Salandra, at once ordered that the necessary measures be taken to guarantee the complete liberty of the provisional government of the church, and of the sacred college of Cardinals, which is the temporary custodian of the Supreme power of the church during the interregnum pending the election of a pope. The matter of a conclave was discussed today it is said that a majority of the cardinals are in favor of holding it in Rome as is usual and further because of the neutrality of Italy in the present war. Others, however, suggested that it would be better to meet in Holland, a country which they regarded as even more neutral than Italy. Among the candidates already mentioned are cardinals Maffi, DeLai, Ferrata, Alardi. (Continued on page 16, col. 3)

Bridge Germans Must Cross at Namur and High Fort Above It.

Count Lichnowsky, German ambassador to Great Britain, hurried from London just as soon as Germany declared war on Great Britain. He is shown leaving the London embassy under a safe conduct from King George.

YOUNG MAN BADLY HURT IN RUNAWAY

A young man named Westbrook, age 20, residing north of the city, sustained dangerous injuries about 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon when the horse he was driving, hitched to a light spring wagon, ran away in East Main street, crashed into the automobile of Charles F. Taylor, grocer in East Main street, throwing the young man to the street.

He was in a semi-conscious condition when witnesses to the accident reached his side. The Clunis & Martin ambulance made a hurry run and conveyed the injured man to the Newark Sanitarium. He was bleeding profusely from wounds about the head, one ear being badly lacerated. He was in no condition to tell of the cause of the runaway.

It was some time before the young man was identified. Papers in the wagon bearing the name of J. L. Westbrook were found and A. A. Westbrook, East Main street grocer, was notified. Inquiry revealed the fact that the victim was a son of J. L. Westbrook, a farmer living north of the city. The latter is a brother of the East Newark grocer.

At the sanitarium it was stated that young Westbrook suffered a fracture of the skull, but the examination had not been completed and it could not be learned whether there were any further injuries. His condition is serious.

These photographs show Namur, one of the Belgium cities around which the soldiers engaged in the European war have fought for several days. To enter the city the Germans must cross the bridge protected by a citadel high on the hill above. It is not, however, believed that this fortification is strong and it may not stand modern guns. Military experts insist the city must be taken by the Germans before they can continue "their march on to Paris."

England Outlines Her Military and Naval Plan To Secretary Bryan Today

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Washington, Aug. 20.—The British embassy here today received from its foreign office a summary of the naval and military situation to date.

Colville Barclay, the charge, sent a copy to Secretary Bryan. It follows: "Since the declaration of war, the fleet has been responsible for the safety of the expeditionary force which completed its disembarkation in France on August 18, which was effected in perfect order and without casualties.

The work of the navy in the Atlantic and elsewhere in safeguarding the trade routes, is best exemplified by the fact that at Lloyds yesterday, the war risk rate fell to forty shillings per cent. for almost any voyages of British vessels, whereas the rate to insure freights of corn, paid by steamers from the United States to a British port is 30 shillings per cent.

"The German fleet outside the Baltic is confined to harbors. English commerce is almost normal. German seaborne commerce is paralyzed.

"The only casualty is the loss of light cruiser Amphion, blown up by a mine after having sunk the German mine layer Koenig Luise. One German submarine has been sunk in the North Sea.

"The military position is as follows: "The German forces at present extend from north of the neighborhood of Basle through Liege to a point in Belgium to the east of Antwerp and near the Dutch frontier. Outstanding features of the operations up to present, has been delayed caused by the contemplated German offense across the Meuse, and by the defense of Liege where the forts are still intact.

"It has permitted the orderly mobilization and concentration of French army and British expeditionary force. German troops have now crossed Meuse both above and below Liege and are gaining some ground slowly westward, but their advance cavalry has been continually checked by the Belgians.

"In the south where the German armies are apparently on the defensive, the French are advancing on a long line into Alsace and Lorraine, a great extent of which they now occupy after driving back in several engagements the troops opposed to them.

Forward Movement May Change Strategy Of Allies' Campaign

Kaiser's Troops Finding All Routes to the Southward Strongly Held; Found Opening to the North and Now Threaten Brussels

STRATEGY OF BELGIANS MERGED WITH ALLIES'

Four Hospitals In Brussels Filled With Wounded Soldiers—No Newspaper Passes Issued to War Correspondents and News From the Front Comes By Courier—Two Sons of the Kaiser Go Through Liege for Scene of Conflict.

An entire change in the plan of campaign may be brought about by the finding of an opening to the north by the German armies in Belgium. This was admitted in an official communication from Brussels today which said the Germans "had gained ground on both banks of the Meuse and were in contact with the allies." It adds that the Belgians, having done all that could be expected by holding the invaders in check for fifteen days their strategy will now be merged into the general plan of the allied armies.

It concludes with the significant sentence that "the retrograde movement does not mean defeat," implying that the Belgians have been operating hitherto by themselves in checking the Germans, while the French and British were making preparations to meet the advancing German forces.

GERMANS MOVING TOWARD BRUSSELS

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
London, Aug. 20.—5:35 P. M.—The following information was given out by the official bureau this afternoon.

"The Belgian field army confronted by Superior numbers, has fallen back.

"The Belgian troops have admirably performed their duty in delaying the hostile advance and enabling their allies to complete their concentration.

A despatch to the Star from Brussels says the German occupation of Brussels is imminent.

The Burgomaster of the Belgian capital has ordered the civic guard to disarm. [ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
Brussels, Aug. 18.—(Tuesday via London Aug. 20., 3:30 a. m.)—The war is evidently rapidly drawing nearer this city. Already four hospitals are filled with wounded soldiers. German aeroplanes have been seen scouting above the city after sundown.

German cavalry is reported frequently in the region on the farther side of the forest of Soignes, which flanks the city. This forest is the point from which the attack is most likely to come in the opinion of many here and a network of trenches has been thrown up along the woods. The trenches are occupied by Burghers and a few civil guards.

The forest of Soignes, which is to the southeast of Brussels, extends in the direction of Wavre, where severe fighting has been reported. Trustworthy reports have just been received of an engagement near Charleroi. It is claimed by the Belgians that 6,000 Germans were killed in this battle.

The censorship here is now so strict that no news of the war is going to get out of the city except by courier.

The Belgian papers because of the rigid censorship have ceased to be sources of war news. They are publishing chiefly local matters unconnected with the war. The mails also are being held up. An order has just been issued prohibiting the granting of further military passes to newspapermen or others and without these it is impossible for correspondents to go outside the city.

The populace does not appear unduly excited over the prospect of fighting in their streets. The crowds seem placid and the people are attending to their business as usual. Rumor that Brussels has fallen into German hands was persistently current in Paris, but no confirmation could be obtained. The Belgian capital was known certainly to be threatened by daring German cavalry who had reached the forest of Soignes, flanking the city. All the approaching roads had been barricaded and entrenched. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.)

NEW GOVERNOR APPOINTED FOR STRICKEN LIEGE

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
London, Aug. 20.—7:20 A. M.—The Rotterdam correspondent of the Times reports that a telegram from Maastricht says that Prince Eitel Friedrich, the second son of Emperor William, is quartered in the provincial palace at Liege, on the footing of the command of the first guards' regiments. Prince August William, the fourth son of the emperor who stopped last night at the Grand Hotel in Liege, also arrived at the provincial palace and left by motor car for the front. General Von Kotowka has been appointed the new governor of Liege.

Americans Have Difficulty Getting Money in England Deposited to Their Credit Here

[ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM]
London, Aug. 20.—11:25 P. M.—Henry S. Breckinridge, the American assistant secretary of war is waiting instructions at Falmouth on board the cruiser Tennessee. This is the vessel which has on board financial relief for Americans in Europe. Mr. Breckinridge believes that all the money he brought over on the Tennessee is for charitable usages. Consequently Americans over here whose friends deposited money for them with the treasury department at Washington, are not able to get their money here. Nothing can be done in this direction pending the receipt of further instructions from Washington. Many Americans in London who were advised that money would reach them on the Tennessee are keenly disappointed; a number of them need it for the purchase of steamship tickets. The embassy is making every effort to obtain authority from Washington to make delivery of moneys deposited in Washington.

CANDIDATES

FOR COUNTY OFFICES HAVE NEARLY ALL FILED STATEMENTS OF EXPENSE.

Henry C. Keller Spent the Most Money and Frank R. Dumm the Least.

Licking county candidates as a rule spent modest sums for campaign purposes previous to the primary of August 11. J. E. Brownfield candidate for the nomination for sheriff on the democratic ticket had the largest expense account of any of those filed with Clerk Michael Sachs of the Board of Deputy Supervisors of elections. In his statement filed yesterday he admitted spending $270.95 and despite the fact he lost the nomination to R. L. Patton. Mr. Patton landed the nomination with an expenditure of $137.35.

Henry C. Keller spent the most money of any of the candidates for state representative. His expenses amounted to $120.55. Charles Swank successful republican candidate for sheriff, is the only candidate for this office on the republican ticket, who had filed his statement up to noon Thursday. He spent $163.50.

Most of the other statements indicate the expenditure of much smaller sums than those indicated above. Nearly all the expenditures in included bills for printing campaign cards and newspaper advertising. A few itemized precinct workers as an expensive means of campaigning.

Those who had filed statements up to noon Thursday were:

Columbus, Aug. 20.—J. D. Overmeyer of Cincinnati and Columbus probably has been nominated by Republicans as candidate for clerk of supreme court. Returns from all counties except Lucas today showed his name had been written on primary ballots 1678 times while Charles J. Mudock of Zanesville received 1421 votes and E. W. Hughes of Columbus 1326 votes.

King Albert of Belgium Reviewing His Troops.

For the first two weeks of the European war King Albert of Belgium was the only monarch of Europe actually in the field to lead his troops. Time and again when the fighting around Liege was at its height reports came that he had gone out to command his armies. The wonderful story of Belgium has made against the crushing German force is in a large measure accounted for by the fact the king himself was willing to share some of the physical dangers of war.

WAR RISK ON JAPAN'S SHIPS IS INCREASED

(Associated Press Telegram)
San Francisco, Aug. 20.—A London cablegram to the "Pacific Coast" representatives of Lloyd's today gave notice that the underwriters have increased the war risk on Japanese vessels to 6.3 per cent which is the highest rate now being quoted. Insurance men believe this rate will not be appreciably abated until the situation on the Pacific has established itself more definitely or the censorship at Hong Kong and elsewhere has permitted developments of the last fortnight to become known.

FORWARD MOVEMENT

Four of the Brussels hospitals are filled with wounded soldiers. Antwerp apparently is the temporary goal of the German troops in Belgium. They are reported moving slowly but steadily in the direction of great fortified ports on the river Scheldt. The German soldiers have occupied the town of Tielmont and their masses, pushing in from the frontier, are believed to have come into contact with the allies front.

Reports in Brussels asserted a battle had occurred near Charleroi, in which the Germans were supposed to have suffered a loss of 6000 killed. This was not confirmed by any official source. Reports were current in many European quarters today that Germany had decided not to comply with Japan's ultimatum calling for the German evacuation of Kaoli Chow, and the abandonment of the eastern seas by German war vessels.

News of military developments issued by the official bureaus, becomes more brief as the great masses of Germans and Austrians approach the opposing forces of the Belgians, French and British, and indications of the positions occupied are entirely suppressed. This morning's note sent out by the French war office just mentions that important events are occurring in Belgium and adds that there is nothing new along the front in Alsace-Lorraine.

French official advices announce the rapid progress of the French column invading Lorraine in the direction of Metz. Two sons of Emperor William, Princes Eitel Frederick and August William, are said to have passed through Liege on the way to the front.

A corps of Amazons is reported being raised in Berlin according to a statement made by Chinese medical men who have arrived in Rotterdam from the German capital.

Montenegrin troops have invaded Austrian territory in Herzegovina, where they have been incorporated as an army corps in the Serbian army.

The small German and British forces stationed in the African colonies are carrying out raids in each other's territory. The Germans in East Africa today invaded the British protectorate.

The question of providing work for those thrown out of employment by the war occupied the attention of the French cabinet council, which decided to start workshops and labor yards.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Farmer and daughter Ivorene left this morning for a ten days' trip to Indianapolis.

RUSSIA FOR ONCE FEELS HERSELF IN RIGHTED CAUSE.

(Associated Press Telegram)
London, Aug. 20.—A letter to the Daily Chronicle, written in St. Petersburg on Aug. 12, says: Russia is full of moral energy. Russia feels herself for once to be morally in the right. Russia's internal condition was deplorable," says the correspondent. "The Poles, Finns and Jews were embittered by the government's policy of oppression. The Duma was divided and helpless. Strikes were spreading. There were serious riots in St. Petersburg. Everywhere 'the people are going to war to die for our country' as the peasants say. The drink shops were closed and all went soberly and sternly expecting no easy victories and prepared for a long and hard struggle. For the first time in his reign the Russian Emperor is cut off now from those German influences that egged him on continually to ruinous reaction."

NEGLIGENCE

ON EMPLOYEE'S PART DOES NOT BAR HIM FROM RECOVERING AWARD.

State Industrial Commission Makes Important Ruling on Compensation Law.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Columbus, Aug. 20.—Gross negligence on the part of an employee resulting in death, does not constitute injury "purposely self-inflicted," under the state workmen's compensation act, and compensation will be paid to dependents of a person killed under such circumstances. This is the ruling of the state industrial commission announced today. Compensation amounting to $1875 will be paid to the widow of Frank Stopyra, killed March 4, in the Plum Run mine of the United States Coal Co., Jefferson county, by the fall of a roof of slate under which he had been warned not to work.

The ruling is considered important because it will determine when compensation shall be paid in similar circumstances in the future. "The workmen's compensation act must be broadly interpreted in harmony with its main purpose of providing support for those dependent on a deceased employee," says the ruling.

"The act must not be given too narrow and restricted meaning."

ADVANCE

IN PRICE OF SUGAR RECENTLY LAID TO MANIPULATION OF MARKET

In New York, While Chicago Wholesalers Consequently Made a Huge Profit

Chicago, Aug. 20.—Responsibility for the recent advance in the price of sugar was placed primarily on alleged manipulations of the New York market in reports made here today by investigator James L. Bruff, chief of the bureau of investigation of the department of justice.

Chicago wholesalers, the investigators reported, made corresponding increases on their own account and reaped large profits.

The federal investigation into war time prices was again centered in the books of the meat packers.

DR. CHAMBERLIN NOW IN EUROPE, WRITES LETTER

Telling of His Safety and Many Interesting Experiences on the Continent.

(Special to The Advocate)

Granville, Aug. 20.—The following is an excerpt from a letter dated August 7th inst. received by Mrs. W. A. Chamberlin from her husband who is conducting a party of ten through Europe this summer. Dr. Chamberlin's many friends will be relieved to learn of his safety and interested to read his recent experiences:

"My letter a week ago was written on the night before our departure for The Hague. The next day the war cloud broke over us. We couldn't have stayed another day in Holland although fortunately it was according to our program to leave. We went out early to Deift on Saturday forenoon. On all sides the Dutch soldiers were gathering and their clattering footsteps could be heard all night and day, marching past. When we got back to the hotel, we could see evidences of confusion and excitement. People were talking and rushing about, and there our express checks could not be cashed and as I had very little currency and had to meet considerable expense in getting the party away, I began to feel the pinch. But we finally (Just now a procession of boys and young men has gone marching past our hotel, singing and shouting. So it has been every night this week. People have thronged the vicinity of the government buildings in Whitehall and the King's palace, Trafalgar Square and the streets. It has been a week of crowding and hurrying, and of intense excitement, while the opening scene of perhaps the greatest war the world has ever seen has been unfolding before us.)

But to return to my story: We left The Hague on an early evening train and got to the boat in a hurrying crowd of people, all anxious to get away and looking to England as a haven. Our boat was crowded with Americans and English, who had been warned and even ordered to get away from the continent. Many of them had left their trunks and baggage behind, and were glad to get themselves to the boat. Many of them had been on the road twenty-four hours from German cities, and when they came to the borders of Germany some of them had to get off and walk several miles to a train in the next country. They were glad enough to reach the boat and lie down on the deck and on benches to sleep. The deck was full of them. Our boat waited till daybreak Sunday morning before starting and was probably the last regular boat leaving Holland for England. We came that near to being left and suffering delay if not hardships. But we got across all right, had comfortable state rooms and reached London in good condition, not a piece of baggage lost, nor any of us sick or injured. We found comfortable rooms reserved for us here at the "Thackeray." We start tomorrow for Oxford to try to carry out the rest of our trip. I don't know how we shall get along, but am sanguine.

FIGHTING AROUND VILLAGES ALONG NORTHERN FRENCH FRONTIER IS DESCRIBED.

German Advance Was Repelled After Strategic Positions Changed Frequently.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Aug. 20.—An official communication issued at Paris last night states that very large German forces are crossing the Meuse between Liege and Namur. The statement continues:

"The French army is making a rapid advance on Seille river and at the end of the day have reached Delme on one side of the river and Morhange on the other."

A despatch to the Times from Paris says that the first point at which the Germans crossed the French frontier was at Cirey sur Vesouze. Since then there has been continued fighting in that region until a day or two ago when it ended in the victorious advance of the French forces, who inflicted a decisive defeat on the enemy and drove them back across the frontier east of Lunville.

The correspondent says that the laconic reports of the French minister of war give little idea of the desperate struggle that occurred around the handful of villages scattered along the French border. "Point after point was taken and retaken by one side or the other. He gives the following story of the fighting at the village of Badonviller, as told by the villagers:

"The village was occupied by a battalion of chasseurs as a covering force and was prepared for defense by numerous trenches. The battle began on August 10. The Germans bombarded the village compelling the chasseurs to evacuate. The latter retired on elles and afterwards took up a position on Douain ridge. "After nightfall the Germans increased the bombardment and the inhabitants sought refuge in cellars as a continuous rain of shells kept wrecking the houses and setting them afire. It was a terrible sight. Women fell on their knees and prayed, while children cried piteously.

"The Chasseurs retired, defending every house foot by foot and making the Germans feel their fire. The sun rose on a village in ruins. It had been under bombardment fifteen hours. When the Germans entered they fired first on all the windows and down loopholes into the cellars. No corner was spared."

Sparks at the parsonage in the presence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dugan, after which they returned to the home of the bride where a sumptuous wedding supper awaited them. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Beckham, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dugan, Miss Velma Dugan, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Priest, Mr. Carl Beckham, Mrs. Emma Varner and sons, Carroll and Kyle. Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Dugan.

WILL AGAIN FOLLOW LEAD OF WALTER F. BROWN AS STATE CHAIRMAN

Garford, Garfield and Other Progressive Leaders Attending State Convention.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Walter F. Brown will be elected Chairman of the Progressive state central committee when the members of that committee meet this afternoon. Mr. Brown will probably also be elected chairman of the executive committee and will have charge of the coming campaign. For several days past there have been rumors to the effect that Mr. Brown would devote more time to the national progressive organization and would give up the work of the state chairmanship. These reports, it is declared, are without foundation.

Arthur L. Garford, of Elyria, Progressive candidate for United States senator; James R. Garfield, candidate for governor and a number of members of the central committee, reached Columbus last night to attend the meeting which is to be held this afternoon in the rooms of the state committee.

The Progressives which have reached Columbus scorned the idea of amalgamation with any other party and also, the rumors that any of the candidates on the state ticket would resign. "Conditions were never better," declared Mr. Garford. "We have a splendid working organization in every county of the state and we plan a very aggressive campaign from now until election day."

E. W. Hanley of Dayton, chairman of the Democratic state central committee today sent out a personal invitation to each of the twenty-two Democratic candidates for congress in the state to attend the platform convention to be held at memorial hall next Tuesday. This was done after Chairman Hanley had held a conference with Governor Cox who desires that the congressional candidate be given a place in the party council. Unless there is legal objection, these twenty-two candidates will be given a voice in the convention.

If this objection is made, they will be considered as guests and their advice will be sought on any issues which may arise.

The work on the new room is being rushed to completion and the stock is now coming in. The store will be equipped and the formal opening for business will be held September 4 and 5.

APPLICATION OF FOREIGN SHIPS FOR U. S. REGISTRY

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Aug. 20.—Vessels flying foreign colors are expected to immediately begin applying for American registry under the law which has just been passed by congress. The department of commerce, through the navigation bureau, is sending out copies of the law to the various ports and shipping interests, and as soon as there is a general familiarity with the terms of the new legislation, the augmenting of the American merchant marine is expected to get in full swing.

How many vessels are likely to come under the American flag under stimulus of the new law is problematical but treasury and commerce department officials, as well as the maritime interests are looking ahead to the enactment of the war risk insurance bill into law to boom the trans-Atlantic trade and help in the present disturbed state of the export trade.

WHOLE FAMILY TAKEN ILL WITH SCARLET FEVER

There seems to be a prevalent superstition, that when calamity befalls it comes in threes, but in the case of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lake of Pataskala street, the old bugaboo, seems to be working overtime, for it not only has been doubled but given an added impetus of another misfortune. Mr. and Mrs. Lake and their five children are ill with scarlet fever.

The ages of the children range from six months to eight years, and with the father and mother all are very ill with the fever. Clarissa Lake, Age 5, is the most seriously ill, and all are being cared for at the home in Pataskala street. Dr. P. H. Martin is the attending physician.

ARTILLERY COMBAT PRECEDED CAPTURE OF GERMAN FLAG

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Paris, Aug. 20.—An officer of the French rifle regiment gives to the Petit Troien, the following account of the capture of the first German flag:

"The engagement of the French troops with the 99th brigade of Germans lasted from 5:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. night.

"The artillery combat was terrible. The French 55-millimetre guns made havoc among the German horses and then reduced the heavy German guns to silence. The gunners were decimated by the French fire and they abandoned their pieces which fell into French hands.

"The German machine guns from a church steeple continued to ravage the French but the church was finally demolished.

"At midnight the French charged the enemy's defense works with irresistible energy and took them at the point of the bayonet. They established themselves there for the night.

"In the action the fifth company of the first battalion captured a German flag with eight guns, 90 horses and 537 prisoners, including 10 officers."

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is a sign you have been eating too much meat which forms uric acid.

When you wake up with the backache and dull misery in the kidney region it means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all in the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy; full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

Wonder how many of the millions now engaged in the European war really know what the fight is about?

If it's as warm in Europe as it is in Ohio the soldiers in battle array are certainly having a hot time of it.

There ought to be little difficulty in awarding the Nobel peace prize this year as there are so many who are certainly out of the running.

Has anybody here (or there) seen Huerta? The name sounds familiar in spite of the several ways in which one hears it pronounced.

It is not only the proper thing to remain neutral in this European conflict but it is prudent as well. We heard yesterday of a man who was knocked down because he expressed his sentiments in emphatic language.

A Kansas town named Haven has a municipal picture show which is said to produce sufficient profit to run the water plant. Evidently the patronage of the show is very heavy or the people of that town drink very little water.

A Montreal dispatch says that in Canada a married man must have the consent of his wife before enlisting for war service. Is the large number of enlistments evidence of patriotism on the part of the women or a desire to get rid of their husbands?

What President Has Done.

commerce at home and abroad as never before. Legislation recently enacted will result in the dispatch of commercial attaches to all foreign countries in addition to the location of offices of this branch of the service in the various large cities at home.

FINALLY.

President Wilson has worked untiringly and with a sincerity entirely new to our political life for what he considered the best interest of mankind. He has worked unceasingly and without vacation—day in and day out—for the rank and file of the public and not for any clique or group. He has worked for peace—peace at home as well as peace abroad.

The record made by Woodrow Wilson is without parallel in the entire history of the nation.

Spirit of the Press

This is America.

President Wilson's personal appeal to his "fellow countrymen" to preserve strict neutrality in speech and conduct is timely in its proclamation and admirable in its tone and purpose. In essence it is a reminder that this country of ours is America, a grand fact which appears to have escaped the minds of some who would supplement the continental conflict across the Atlantic by instigating controversies between natives of the countries now at war.—Pittsburg Gazette Times.

Learn to Swim.

If every boy and girl were taught to swim there would be a remarkable decrease of "accidental deaths" during the hot season. There is no good reason why swimming should not be a practically universal accomplishment. All children love the water. Give them access to a pool and a little instruction and watchfulness from experienced elders and the work is done. There is no need for compulsory education in this regard. All that is necessary is to utilize the child's native instincts.—Chicago Journal.

Europe's New Map.

When Prussia and Austria-Hungary combined in 1864 to crush little Denmark and despoil it of Schleswig-Holstein they doubtless never dreamed that a day of reckoning might come, possibly half a century later. So far the Danes have not made any claim, as have the more clamorous Poles, but if the Allies win and the map of Europe is redrawn they will be in a position to ask for long-deferred justice. Schleswig, where over 200,000 people speak Danish, is rightfully theirs, just as Holstein is properly German. Whether the little nation will think it expedient to make any demands upon its big and warlike neighbor is another matter.—Philadelphia Record.

Censorship.

The censorship is serviceable both at home and abroad; it can be used in a way to quiet the apprehensions and the possible outbreaks at home, and it can be used in a way to vitalize a doubt away from home as to what actually happened. The censor has come to be in reality a press agent for his sovereign, and his function is to feed such fiction to the public, at home and abroad, as he conceives to be required by the exigencies of his boss. The censorship permits not merely the suppression of untoward facts, but the circulation of expedient fictions. The next time the peace congress assembles at The Hague, if indeed it ever shall, one of its first acts should be to declare freedom of movement for every properly-accredited journeyman reporter.—Galveston News.

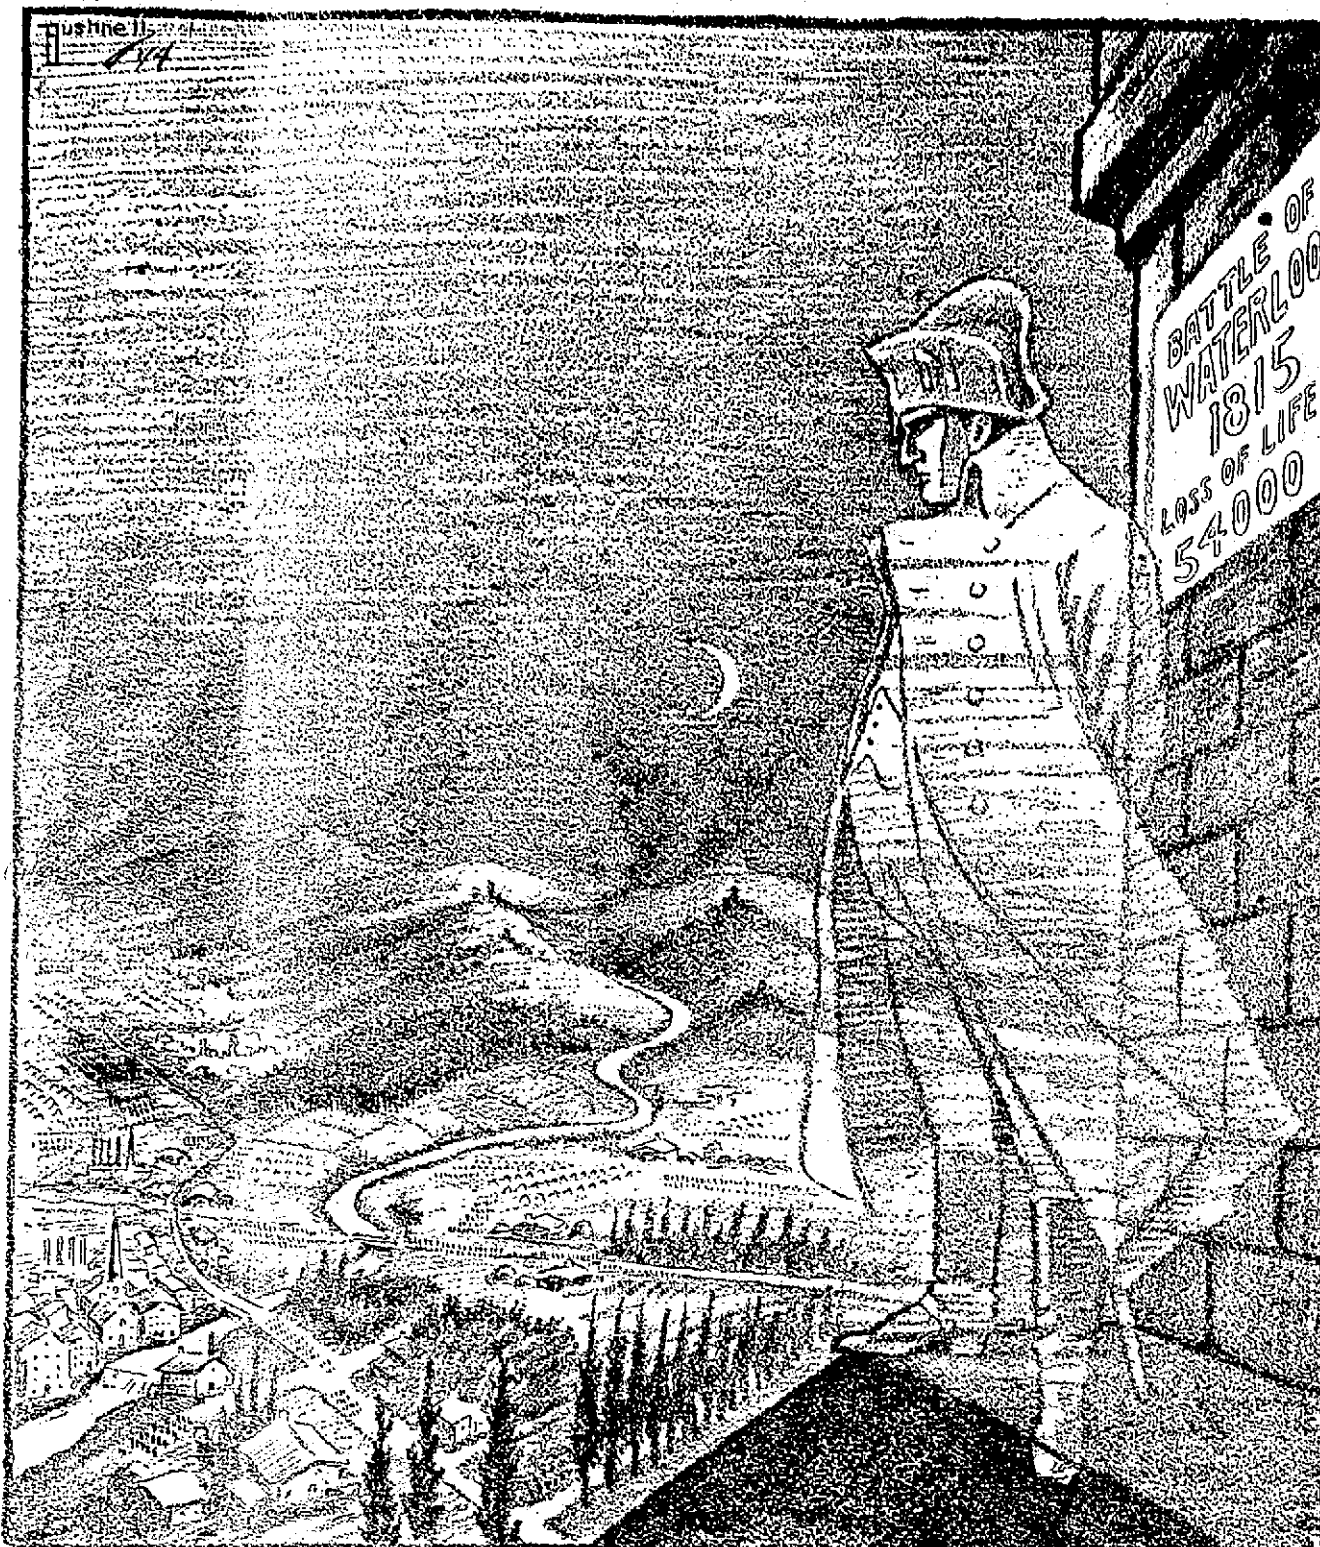

Polish Enthusiasm.

Though "Freedom shrieked when Kosciuszko fell," she does not seem to have gone into a protracted swoon, if we may credit the reports of Polish enthusiasm over the czar's offer of autonomy in return for loyalty at the present crisis. Still it would seem wise for the Poles to pin the czar down to something definite in black and white before they proceed to offer themselves as targets. The history of their country's dealings with Russia through a long series of years ought to have convinced them by this time that there is a whole lot of difference between imperial promises and imperial performances.—Philadelphia Record.

The summary suppression of alcohol-drinking in Paris by the Prefect of Police accomplishes at a stroke and as a war measure what years of peaceful agitation had failed to effect.—New York World.

CHOOSING A BRIDE.

The man who goes to choose a bride should cautious be, and falcon-eyed, or he will harvest woes; it is a most important chore—more so than going to the store to buy a suit of clothes. If you have dreams of pleasant nights around the fire and home delights, sidestep the giddy maid whose thoughts are all of hats and gowns, and other female hand-me-downs, of show and dress parade. And always shun the festive skirts who'll never miss a chance to flirt with men, at any cost; she may seem sweet and charming now, but as your own and only frau, she's sure to be a frost. And when you see a woman near who hankers for a high career, and comb her hair back straight, who says she's wedded to her art, whose brow is high, whose tongue is tart—oh Clarence, pull your freight! Select a damsel safe and sane, who has no folly in her brain, who wants to build a home; if you can win that sort of bride, peace shall with you and yours abide, and crown your old bald dome.—Chicago Herald.

HARRIET CATHERINE MILLER
Two and one-half years old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Miller, 309 W. Church street.

The heart of a little North End boy was gladdened some time ago by the gift of a velocipede, which immediately became his most cherished possession. Sunday came around and he entered a demurrer against attending Sunday school. "But," said his mother, "since God has given you this nice velocipede don't you think you had better go to Sunday school and show him you are thankful for it?" It was an effective and fruitful suggestion. He trudged off to Sunday school and handed his startled teacher the following bit of information: "God gave me my velocipede but I put the bell on myself."

An Ohio farmer took his numerous progeny to a county fair in that state. As the party moved about the grounds the father felt his fourth born tugging at his coat-tails. He turned, and the youngster begged him to buy a certain toy. "Buy it yourself," said the father. "Where's the time I gave you a little while ago?" "It's down my neck," "Well, shake it out," "But, father," protested the lad, "I can't. It was in my mouth when it went down."—Houston Times.

To Keep Your Skin Free From Hairs.

(Beauty Topics.)
If you are willing to spend a few minutes' time in your room using a delatone paste, you can easily banish any ugly, hairy growth without discomfort or injury. The paste is made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. This is then spread over the hairy surface and after about 2 minutes rubbed off and the skin washed. You will not be disappointed with this treatment, providing you get real delatone. Adv.

Salt Gerns.
"Salt, of all things, we deem germ proof; but, as a matter of fact, salt is one of the most germ ridden foods we eat."

The speaker, a physiologist, continued:
"You know gray salt, the 'gross' salt that goes around with bolted beef? Well, that salt is made gray by the addition of mud, plain mud; hence it always contains from 6,000 to 75,000 bacterial colonies per gram. Refined salt, white salt, is almost as bad. It lies, you know, in the refinery under a blanket of clay, and its refining consists of a sea water bath, after which it is dried and heated to the point of crystallization. All this fails, of course, to remove from it its 2,000 or 3,000 bacterial colonies per gram that it imbibed from its clay blanket. The pure food people should look to our salt. This white, clean stuff is alive with germs. Yet it would be easy to refine it so as to make it germ free."—Exchange.

"I don't believe you are in a position to take my daughter away from me," objected her father. "All right," agreed the impecunious suitor cheerfully. "If that's the way you feel about it we'll just come and live with you."

Is This Way, Ladies? Beauty Is So Fair?

(From London Herald.)
Ever since the discovery that mercerized wash would absorb and remove a discolored complexion, its use by ladies as a substitute for bleaching cream has grown rapidly. A perfect complexion can be maintained indefinitely if this remarkable substance is used. It benefits the complexion, clearing and preserving action is quickly apparent, and ladies who have been using it for a long time, are now using it for a special bleach from beauty specialists, soon recognize that mercerized wash outranks them all. It has become so popular that it can be obtained at all chemist shops in the British Isles. American druggists also have great demand for it in original one-ounce packages. The favorite way of using it is to apply it with a brush, before getting, washing it off in the morning.

The savitelle lotion for wrinkles and the facial cream is also becoming extremely popular. One ounce powdered savitelle is dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. The face in this has a splendid effect in erasing wrinkles and improving contour. Advertisement.

It isn't altogether an infirmity to be deaf to flattery.

WOMAN ARRESTED FOR REFUSING TO FEED TROOPS

The following letter has just been received by Mrs. Robert W. Howard, from her brother, Richard W. Watkins, and her parents, who are spending the summer in England and Wales. The letter was dated August 6 at Warrick, England.

"We landed safely in Liverpool Friday night - July 31st, and soon found a very comfortable hotel, where we remained until the next Tuesday morning, visiting Mr. Northey's relatives in Safford and Birkenhead and seeing the docks, shipyards and the famous landing stage, from which we saw the Mauretania sail for New York and the Aquatania being fitted for use as a transport in the coming war. After leaving Liverpool we visited the old town of Chester with its old Roman walls and enjoyed the sights of the River Dee, with its picturesque old mill wheels.

"From Chester we went to Wolverhampton where we spent the night, sleeping soundly, notwithstanding the uproar caused by the declaration of war at midnight.

"The English folks seem anxious for war with Germany and don't consider such a thing as being on the losing side.

"We left Wolverhampton early enough yesterday morning to arrive in Stratford on Avon in time for breakfast. We spent most of the day seeing the places immortalized by Shakespeare, such as Ann Hathaway's thatched roof cottage, old Holy Trinity church, where the poet and his wife are buried. We crossed the Avon to get a better view of the church and the back through the town by the memorial buildings and Guild Chapel to the quaint old birthplace of the famous dramatist.

"From Stratford on Avon we came on to Warrick where we will visit the famous Castle this afternoon and then go on to Oxford, Windsor and London.

"Some of the tourists poke fun at the little coaches of the railway trains, yet it seems to me they are superior in cleanliness, convenience and comfort and just as fast as the American cars.

"We can't tell just when we will have to leave Warrick as I am under military control and the streets are thronged with soldiers.

"Our boarding house keeper here said that she wouldn't keep the soldiers and she was straightway arrested.

"Some of the tourists are leaving and the shopkeepers say their trade has been ruined.

"The banks have been having an extended holiday since Monday, but the hotels cash our checks very readily. Uncle Sam's credit seems to be especially good here.

"The weather is warm and it rains almost every day. We would appreciate a little American sunshine, as we have slight colds."

What happens after it lights?

The fact that a match lights only on a box does not make it a safe match.

What happens when it lights? That is what counts.

The Diamond Match Company

Does it "spark" or fly? Does the head drop off? Does the stick break?

A match that does any of these things is dangerous. You cannot afford to use it. Safe Home Matches are absolutely safe.

They light not only on the box, but also on any ordinary abrasive surface. They burn evenly. They are non-poisonous. When you blow one out, it goes out and it stays out—there is no after-glow.

All grocers. Five cents a box.

Royal Fusiliers Repelling Attack in Field, and Lord Kitchener.

The Royal Fusiliers—one of the crack regiments of the British army, will likely be among the first to go to the war in Europe. This photograph shows them repelling an attack in the field. They are in solid formation to withstand a charge. The German army assailing Liege charged in this manner, and thereby sustained heavy losses. Lord Kitchener, now the war secretary of Great Britain, will direct the operations of the British army in France and Belgium. He will, of course, remain in London, but there is no doubt that no important move other than those he plans, will be made. Lord Kitchener is the idol of the British public. His campaigns in the Soudan and in South Africa made him the foremost soldier of Great Britain and he has never lost his hold on British imagination.

LADY COOK PROPOSES A WOMEN ARMY

Lady Cook, the titled product of Licking county and a notable exponent of woman's rights, has elicited from various publications throughout the country some caustic criticism and some commendation of her proposed plan for raising an army of 150,000 women of England, trained and armed like regular soldiers to fight for their country.

Lady Cook's latest proposition is based on her faith in the physical endurance and courage of woman-kind, whom she places on an equal with the stronger sex, so-called.

The Philadelphia Record, editorially, in speaking of Lady Cook's plan, refers to comments on the subject of woman's power as an international peace factor, quoting a number of prominent suffragists whose contention appears to be that woman's realm should be that of peace and her sphere, politically, that of lifting the ideals of the world above warfare as a means of settling international differences.

In a far briefer and proportionately more biting editorial, the Chicago Herald figuratively escorts Lady Cook to a rear seat, with the parting shot:

"Such suggestions do well enough, perhaps, in the silly season. But when a great nation is grappling with strong enemies they are entirely out of place."

And—
"Let men war if they will and must! But let women ever remain the vestals who guard the sacred flame of peace and love and service on the high altars of home and country!"

W. D. Nutter is one of the two or three oldest men in Newark, being in the 85th year of his age. There are many events of his early life which he vividly recalls and in the following communication calls attention to one that made an impression on his youthful mind:

"I was well acquainted with Benjamin B. Briggs, formerly editor of the Advocate. He was always across the street from where I was working in 1836 for Harrison Lott and John Boston. He had two other men working for him Henry Grandle and John Rankin, besides two girls and two boys. Mr. Briggs conducted these offices for a long while.

"I commenced work the second lot from B. B. Briggs and found him an awful crusty fellow. There was a Southerner came here to visit some friends. Ben had a pigeon hole where he handed out the mail, and one day the Southerner poked his head in the pigeon hole and called Briggs in a brusque way and B. B. caught him by the nose and twisted it pretty hard and he went off home awful mad. The Southerner came back in two or three days and walked back and forth past the office and as Briggs came out to go to dinner the Southerner man ran and caught him and whipped him awfully. He held Ben up for several days. Some time after this Briggs sold out and quit the business."

ZANESVILLE WILL VOTE ON CHARTER

The Zanesville city council has designated November 3 as the time when the voters of Zanesville may say whether or not they desire to have prepared a new city charter which shall be later submitted to them for their approval or disapproval. All questions involving the kind of charter will, of course, come up at the later election. Zanesville people are to say in November simply whether they want a chance to have a charter prepared.

Those who vote in the affirmative of this preliminary proposition will at the same time vote for 15 persons from a list of candidates who shall serve as a commission to draw up the charter. The usual procedure in other Ohio cities which have elected such commissions is for that body while deliberating upon a new instrument, to hold hearings at which the various interests of the city may present their views as to what should be embodied in the charter.

The Late Pope Pius X.

POPE PIUS X., known as "the peasant pope," was born of peasant parents June 2, 1835, in the little village of Riese, in the province of Treviso, in the northeast of Italy. He was the eldest of two brothers, and he had six sisters. Following the custom of Italian peasants, the sisters never wore hats, and they were as simple folk as their brother's elevation as they were before.

The family name of Pope Pius X. was Sarto, the Italian for "tailor." He was christened Giuseppe and was called "Beppo," the diminutive of Giuseppe, by his mother and sisters. Even after he entered the Vatican he was still Beppo to the three unmarried sisters who lived near him and with whom he spent many pleasant hours in the gardens of the Vatican.

The early life of the future pope was much like that of other boys of his time and position. He was educated at the Salesian Institute at Cologno and became a parish priest. It was only his unusual ability that enabled the future pontiff to complete his education, for his father had little money to spend though the pious of little money never touched the humble family.

The boy was aided materially by Abbe Tito Losani, who was impressed by the mental ability the youth showed. It was through the abbe's efforts that young Sarto was able to go through school. The abbe devoted himself to his books so sincerely that his scholarship attracted much attention. He took many prizes in the primary school, and these resulted in his being sent to college at Padua, one of the most noted universities in the world.

Divided His Food With Friend.

Many stories have been told regarding the liberality of Pius X. and of his willingness at all times to give anything and everything he possessed to those less fortunate than himself. There is no incident, however, so prominently in his life as that which occurred while he was still a youth at school.

One day Beppo entered the home of an old peasant with whom he was acquainted, only to find his friend bedridden and in danger of starving to death. Of money Beppo had none, and he thereupon decided to share his food with the poor old fellow.

Every day for nearly three months the future pope ate only a small portion of the food provided by the seminary, carrying the remainder to the invalid. The sacrifice on Beppo's part was brought to an end only by the death of the aged peasant.

Pius X. was only twenty-three years of age when he was consecrated a priest at Castel Franco, the birthplace of the great Master Giorgione, acting afterward for nine years as confessor to the parish priest of Tombolo, province of Padua, a small village of 3,000 people, who were the first to appreciate his virtues. His kindness was untiring. He sought to fill their wants, and never a murmur was heard when he was called in the middle of a winter night to a deathbed which proved to be nothing of the kind. He gave freely of his small means until he often went without meals himself, but he kept many a poor family from starvation.

Made a Parish Priest in 1867.

In 1867 he was appointed parish priest at Salzano, which was considered an important promotion, being a village of 3,500 souls. Still, he was exceedingly sorry to leave Tombolo, having become attached to the people. The peasants when he left made a most enthusiastic demonstration, crying "Viva Don Giuseppe!" while many women whose children he had nursed wept copiously.

He distinguished himself so much at Salzano that he was kept there only two years, which is remarkable in the career of an Italian parish priest. In 1873 he was elected chancellor of the bishopric of Treviso, then spiritual director of that seminary, judge of the ecclesiastical tribunal and finally vicar general.

Pope Leo, who had highly appreciated his cleverness, piety and modesty, appointed Sarto in November, 1884, at the age of forty-nine years, bishop of Mantua, where he remained nine years, until 1893, when he was made a cardinal and appointed patriarch of Venice.

Here he distinguished himself as a thorough reformer, suppressing all abuses, restoring the dignity of the clergy and the earnestness of religion.

POPULAR WITH OFFICIALS.

Caused Clash With Government, Then Gained Great Respect.

From his appointment rose heated polemics between the holy see and the Italian government. The latter, as heir to the ancient privileges granted by the pope to the republic of Venice, maintained that it had the right to choose and appoint the patriarch. The government, however, after having long refused its exequatur, eventually granted it to Sarto, who meanwhile succeeded in gaining general esteem, including that of the government officials.

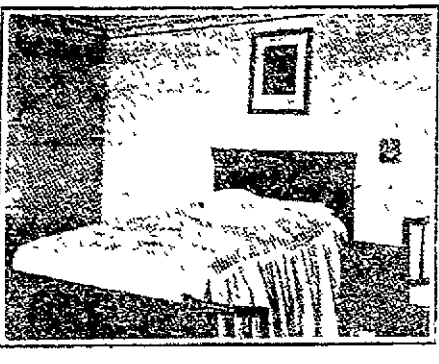

The Italian cabinet ministers had no feeling against Sarto personally. In fact, he might quite well have been their choice if the papacy had not wished him, but it was a political question on which, however, they soon gave way.

Sarto became the idol of the Venetians. When his gondola went through the canals the people rushed on the bridges and along the sides of the canals, kneeling and saluting, the women exclaiming, "God bless the patriarch!"

Learned to Love Venice.

Cardinal Sarto learned to love Venice as Venice learned to love him. He did not visit Rome more often than his duties demanded, and when asked if he enjoyed the gorgeousness of the papal court and the magnificence of the functions Sarto answered, "When I am there I feel like a fish out of water."

While in Venice Cardinal Sarto retained many of the habits he had acquired as a curate. He disliked publicity, detested the praise and compliments of courtiers and was always frank, though timid. Though a high dignitary in the church, he was on friendly terms with the king and the government.

Two months before Cardinal Sarto became pope King Victor Emmanuel went to Venice to open the international art exhibition. The king gave orders that the patriarch be given precedence over all the local authorities; but, Sarto having arrived while the king was speaking to the prefect, who is the highest government official in the province, he refused to be announced and said he would not disturb his majesty. He remained in an ante-chamber, affably conversing with the generals and admirals gathered there.

When the king learned of his presence he came to receive him on the threshold of the chamber and kept him in conversation, accompanying him afterward in a gondola, while all the soldiers and guards rendered Sarto military honors.

MADE PONTIFF IN 1903.

Did Not Expect to Be Chosen and Bought Return Ticket.

Then came the death of Pope Leo XIII in 1903, and Cardinal Sarto was summoned from Venice to assist in the election of the new pope. That he had no expectation of being chosen is certain, because when he bought his ticket to Rome he bought a return trip. He never used it, because he was elevated to the highest position in the church, and he never afterward left the Vatican.

His predecessor had been an aristocrat and a lover of ceremony and pomp. Pius X. was a peasant, and he hated formality and liked simplicity. He immediately made vast changes in the mode of life at the Vatican, but he was unable to do all that he would have liked to do. For instance, he wanted his sisters to live with him, to do his cooking and mend his socks. It was explained that this arrangement was impossible.

He had his sisters brought to Rome, intending to have them live in a house within the Vatican grounds. The sisters objected to the rules that would surround them under the circumstances, and a flat was rented near by, from the windows of which they could wave greetings to their beloved brother and could see his signals in reply.

When the vote of the cardinals conferred on him the highest dignity in the church he perceived at a glance that as a son of the people it would be his best policy as pope to continue in the democratic ways to which he had been accustomed for so long. Succeeding a pope of noble and aristocratic birth, Pius X. found that many of the formalities of life in the Vatican were not suited to him and forthwith abolished many of these formalities which for centuries had been in force at the Vatican and more strictly so under his immediate predecessor.

Refused to "Ride In a Box."

On the very day he was elected, when the sedan brought the pope to the conclave hall, he gently but firmly protested that he would rather walk than ride in a box. For days after that the master of the chamber had the sedan chair waiting in the pope's ante-chamber, but the determination of Pius X. to decline to use it never changed, and finally the chair had to be relegated to the attic.

The same happened with the portable throne which the popes have always used when going to and from a ceremony. Only in a few solemn occasions, when the ceremonies had to be held in St. Peter's, Pius X. consented to sit on this throne, but on all other instances, when the ceremonies were to take place in the Vatican palace itself, he always walked to the meeting place.

The democratic manners of Pius X. were very popular with his intimate secretaries and the prelates of his entourage. Soon after his election, finding that custom prescribed that the pope should take his meals all by himself, he rebelled and ordered that a table be always set for six persons. Excepting the breakfast, which consisted of a cup of coffee which he took alone in his study, he partook of all his other meals together with his private secretaries and during the repast conversed familiarly with them, generally in the Venetian dialect.

For the first few months of his pontificate the Vatican cooks had a hard time to please the democratic tastes of the new pope. The elaborate and formal dishes prescribed by long usage for the pope's table he abhorred and was never so happy as when his own sisters prepared for him a plain Venetian meal and brought it to the Vatican for his dinner or supper. His aversion to any elaborate repast compelled him at last to discharge the Vatican chef and replace him with a Venetian who did the cooking for him when still a bishop.

Abolished Court Ceremony.

One of the traits which made Pius X. very popular to the Roman people and to all his personal visitors was the democratic way in which he received them at the Vatican. Under the preceding popes a visitor before approaching the head of the church was obliged to make three formal genuflections, one at the threshold of the papal apartment, a second inside the door and the third when approaching the pope.

Pius X., however, soon dispensed with these formalities and had been known to go and meet his visitors at the very door and escort them out, no matter how humble their position in life, when they left the apartment. To any one who tried to kneel before him Pius X. promptly extended his hand and insisted on the person rising.

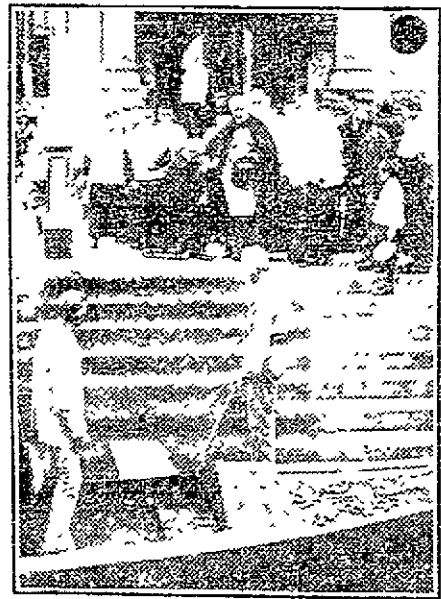

Among other signs of the pope's democracy was the abolition of many officials whose duties had long ceased to exist and who had become purely ornamental adjuncts of the papal court. Had he consulted only his individual desires he would have abolished the court altogether, but he realized that the exalted office he held demanded a certain amount of state, and he put aside his personal inclinations in this respect.

Again, he forbade the members of his establishment kneeling whenever he passed, as had been the custom for centuries. Such perpetual homage, the inability to walk in the garden or in the corridors of the Vatican without every person kneeling grated on him.

Called Him an Art Critic.

J. Pierpont Morgan Had Pleasant Interview in the Vatican.

J. Pierpont Morgan had an interview with Pope Pius in 1905, and in discussing the subject later the financier said: "I was struck by the intensely developed mentality of Pope Pius. He had a strongly intellectual face, with piercing eyes, but his smile was full of good will.

"I admired principally, however, his great simplicity of manner and his air of absolute sincerity. His democratic tendencies appealed to me. The pope declined to permit me to kneel to him, as is customary, but took my hand in the American manner and gripped it cordially.

"The impression I received from my long conversation with him and the walk through the Vatican was one of deep regard for his well developed artistic sense. He had an intense and deep appreciation of the beauties and glories of the art treasures of the Vatican, and his observations and comments were not those of a mere amateur, but of a trained connoisseur of art.

"We talked of religion in our country, and I was pleased to find that the pope was fully cognizant of the conditions in the United States. He twice remarked that Americans were very good Christians."

The first man to gain the privilege of painting the portrait of Pope Pius X. was Henry J. Thaddeus, a British artist, who is a native of Ireland and a Catholic.

"I was staying in Rome at the time of Leo XIII's death," said the artist after the picture was finished, "and as soon as his successor was chosen I sent in my application for permission to paint his portrait. Fortunately I had a friend among the cardinals, and through his influence, after many weary days of waiting, I was told that the pope would be graciously pleased to see me and give me some sittings.

POPE PIUS X. ON THE THRONE.

It was then the middle of August and Rome was almost unbearably hot. I hardly know when I noticed the more, the holy father, seated in his heavy pontifical robes, or myself, dressed in evening clothes and sweating gallons at every pore. I really believe I could have swung the water out of my suit.

Patient and Kind.

"The patience and kindness of the pope during the sittings were remarkable, especially when one considers how worn out he was with attending to ecclesiastical affairs, which occupied him nearly every moment of the day. Yet, in spite of all the worry and strain of having to receive so many delegates and discharge so many pressing duties, he never exhibited the slightest degree of impatience or fatigue. He took the liveliest interest in the progress of the picture.

"I was especially anxious to get the color of the eyes correctly, as I believe that a portrait painter should spend more time and pains on the eyes than on any other part of the face. The eyes are truly the windows of the soul and the keynote of the portrait. 'Why, father,' I said one day after taking a careful look at him, 'your eyes are blue, like an Irishman's.'"

"Suomo fratello—we are brothers," said the pope, smiling. Unlike the majority of Italians, Pius X. had a very keen sense of humor, and no one enjoyed a good joke more than he. In fact, he often shocked some staid and pompous old cardinal by laughing at some trivial incident which the lesser churchman regarded as merely annoying. "Do you know," he told me one day, "that is one of the great disadvantages of being a pope—you have to be so solemn, to take yourself so seriously all the time. I do not think God meant us to be sad, and yet if I laugh my cardinals are all scandalized."

"In that respect, as well as in a good many others, there was a wide difference between Leo XIII and Pius X. Leo XIII. was, like the rest of his countrymen, utterly lacking in a sense of the ridiculous. He smiled almost continually, to be sure, but it was a benign, kindly smile, not a humorous one. Pius X. did not smile so often—he was too oppressed with the cares and weight of his position—but he would laugh right out if something funny occurred. Then, too, Pope Leo was a great stickler for dignity; Pius X. was not. The pomp and magnificence and state with which he was surrounded were a bore to him. He would have been far happier were he back in Venice or as the poor parish priest he was in his earlier days."

Many stories are told of the early life of Pope Pius which throw a light on his later career.

Was a Muscular Christian.

While he was still a poor priest, the curate's house in which he lived having a little garden, he used to spend his spare hours in the open air reading his breviary. A wall separated the garden from the public road, and in this once several young men stopped to talk excitedly, and one of them resorted to profane words. No sooner had he spoken than Don Giuseppe, leaping over the wall, bestowed upon the irreverent fellow such a tremendous blow that it stung him for some time and inspired the others with a wholesome consideration for Don Giuseppe's persuasive powers.

He was already cardinal when he boasted still with a well known monsignore of being able to frighten alone a gang of thieves or robbers at night and proved it by confronting once in a lonely country road a handful of ruffians who attempted to disturb him and by often going out in the night all alone with a latchkey in his pocket to render assistance to the sick and dying.

VISITED DYING ATHEIST.

Called on Freethinker as Old Friend, Not as a Priest.

Once, among others, he was informed that a man who had long been a friend of his, although a freethinker, was on his deathbed. The hour was quite late. He sent to inquire whether the dying man would like to see the answer was affirmative, and Bishop Sarto went as a friend, not as a Roman Catholic priest, to comfort with pure human sympathy the death of the atheist. He often maintained personal friendly relations with Jews and other individuals of various political opinions, and his courtesy and charity were unfeigned to all.

He often pawned his pastoral ring to get ready money for the poor and deprived himself and his family alike of every luxury, claiming that he was only the trustee, not the master, of the money which went through his hands. It is stated that upon his election as a cardinal he bought the garments of state from his predecessor's waiter, to whom they had been given, and had his own bishop's sash dyed purple, rejoicing over the economy which enabled him to do a little more good, be it ever so little, than he could otherwise have done.

Soon after entering the Vatican he ended many forms of etiquette which had endured for centuries. For instance, a visitor had always to genuflect three times upon going into the presence of the pope, first upon crossing the threshold, then when halfway, then at the pope's side. You then kissed the cross upon his right slipper and remained kneeling all the time you were in his presence.

Pope Pius X. would have none of this. He invariably advanced to greet visitors and would then go and get a chair and chat in good old fashion, making one feel at home immediately. It naturally shocked all within the Vatican, but they soon got used to it.

An amusing incident occurred when a diplomat called, expecting, of course, all the old forms. He was surprised at first by the change, but soon recovered himself, had his interview and departed.

In the old form you always bowed yourself out of the pope's presence, but as Pius X. went to the door arm in arm with the diplomat, talking the while, he did not have the chance to bow. At the threshold he turned to genuflect and to his surprise found the pope rearranging the chairs about the room in the most matter of fact way. The pope smiled, and the diplomat retired amazed.

The ladies were indebted to him for banishing the form of having them bow themselves out of his presence. With their long trains this was ever a source of worry and not a little embarrassment to them. They didn't have to do it with Pius X. He invariably showed women out in a most chivalrous manner.

CARD OF THANKS.
I want to thank my many friends for their support in the recent election. The business of the office required my constant attention so that I was unable to call upon my friends throughout the county to solicit their votes, and the fact that I received such large support is very highly appreciated by me. I hope to give such attention to the office as shall merit the votes of the people at the coming election, although I may not be able to give the canvass such attention as ought to be given to it.

Business Depression Due to Great Destruction and Waste of Property Throughout the World

By Judge ELBERT H. GARY, Chairman of United States Steel Corporation

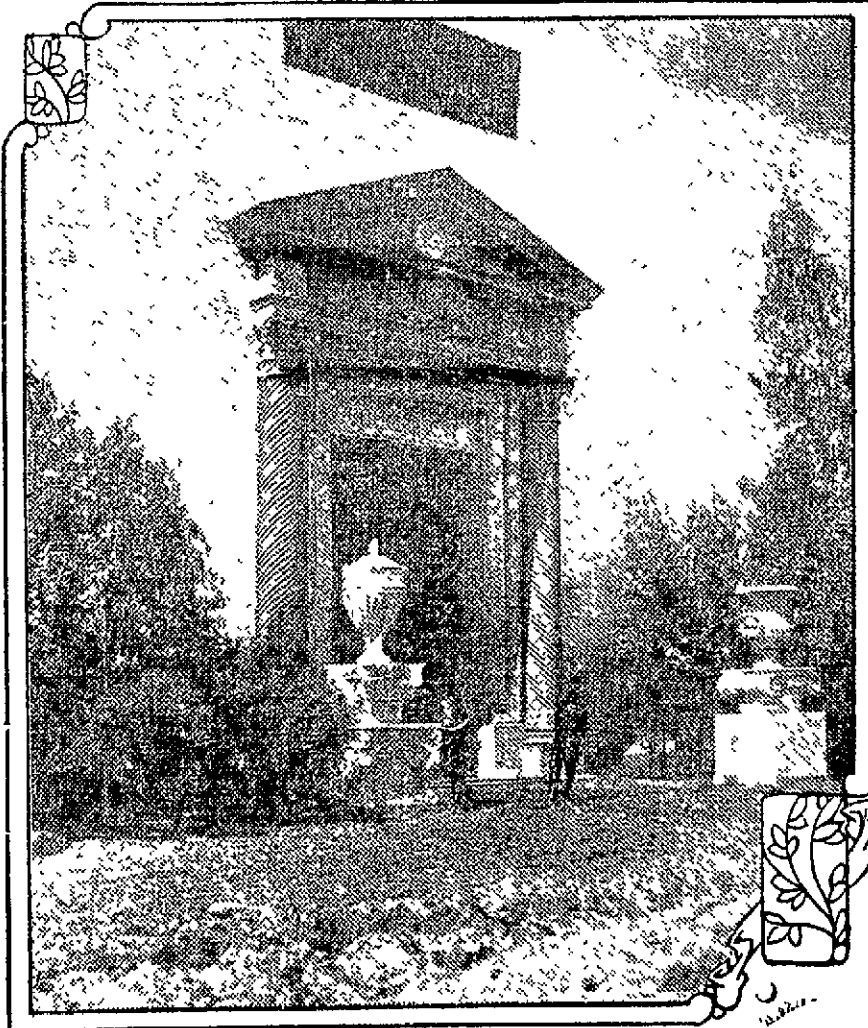

I BELIEVE in the early autumn we shall see an improvement in our business conditions. We are already witnessing an increase in tonnage, and it will be further increased, I trust. The mere fact that tonnages are increasing from day to day will naturally influence some improvement in prices. Therefore I think OUR EARNINGS SHOULD BE MORE SATISFACTORY IN THE LATTER PART OF THE YEAR. Indeed, as I have remarked before, generally when we have a very good six months during the early part of the year there is likely to be poorer business in the latter half of the year, and vice versa.

REGARDING CAUSES OF BUSINESS DEPRESSION IN THE FIRST PLACE THERE HAS BEEN THROUGHOUT THE WORLD DURING THE LAST TWO YEARS GREAT DESTRUCTION AND WASTE OF PROPERTY. WARS, WHICH WERE SEVERE, AND PREPARATIONS FOR POSSIBLE WARS BY WAY OF BUYING AND BURNING POWDER AND OTHER INSTRUMENTS OF WARFARE HAVE MATERIALLY DEPLETED THE FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF THE WORLD.

Again the agitation throughout the universe prompted from good motives or sometimes from motives of cupidity and at other times by reason of individual effort to succeed politically have had a decided and adverse influence. THERE SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN MORE UNREST, MORE DISTURBANCE, MORE OPEN ANTAGONISM, BETWEEN DIFFERENT CLASSES OF PEOPLE THAN EVER BEFORE. And there is little doubt that business conditions everywhere have been influenced by this agitation. This country is no exception.

ONE VICTIM OF EXPLOSION DIES AT SANITARIUM

WILLIAM H. ANDREWS NEVER RECOVERED CONSCIOUSNESS AFTER ACCIDENT.

Harley Kreager's Life Hanging by a Thread—Dead Man Was 34 Years of Age.

After lingering in a state of unconsciousness which was unbroken from the time of his injury, William H. Andrews, one of the two seriously injured victims of the Black Hand quarry dynamite explosion, died about 7 o'clock Wednesday night in the Newark sanitarium.

Harley Kreager, the other victim, showed little change in condition, Thursday, and attendants say his life is hanging by a slender thread. A slight rally is looked for if the man is able to withstand the reaction which follows the long period on the operating table, the shock of the accident and the operation. Kreager was able, Wednesday, to recognize friends by their voices. His left eye was removed, and the right eye was bandaged, but whether the one eye will be saved appears a question.

W. H. Andrews was about 34 years of age, and lived two miles southeast of Black Hand. He is survived by a widow and two children, Angeline and Elsie Andrews. There are three brothers: Walter, a B. & O. brakeman, and Isaac, employed at the B. & O. oil house, both living in Newark, and John Wesley Andrews of Bellaire, and two sisters, Bertha Jane Varner and Edith Mast, both of this city. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Andrews, are living in Madison avenue, Newark.

The body was taken to the morgue of Criss Bros., prepared for burial, and Thursday afternoon removed to the family home near Black Hand. The funeral will be held Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the M. E. church at Irville, Rev. Westlake officiating. Carriages will meet friends at Black Hand, leaving Newark on 7 o'clock interurban.

Kreager, who is about the same age as his dead companion, has a wife and one son. Their home is on Brushy Fork, southwest of Black Hand.

WORDS OF RESIGNATION

Pompili and Serafini, the last named ex-nuncio of Mexico.

There is much interest in the matter of where the body of the Pope will find its final resting place. It is recalled that carrying the body of Pius IX from St. Peter's to St. Lawrence caused a riot. For this reason the body of Pope Leo, although he had expressed a wish to be buried in St. John Lateran where his tomb was erected, is still in St. Peter's as the late pope feared that the transportation might cause disorders. It is believed that Pius X chose St. Peter's for his tomb in order to avoid the possibility of unpleasantness. The Journal d'Italia today says that the Pope recently drew new rules to govern future conclaves and that he abolished the right of veto to foreign powers thus freeing the cardinals of temporal in spiritual matters. The new rules also, the paper says, modified some of the formalities concerning the duration of the conclave.

The arrival of Cardinal Della Volpe, chamberlain of the church from Imola today was anxiously awaited. As chamberlain he will direct the Holy See temporarily and will conduct the traditional ceremony in which the pontiff if officially announced dead.

In this ceremony the chamberlain lifts the covering from the face of the dead and with a silver hammer touches the forehead three times, saying each time: "Giuseppi Sarto."

When there is no reply he announces: "The Pope is really dead."

This is done in the presence of the cardinals, a few intimates of the dead and the plenipotentiaries of St. Peter's who will prepare the body for the tomb.

Later the body will be removed to another room where it will be embalmed.

The sacred college will decide on the day upon which it will be transported to St. Peter's for the three days chapel sacrament before burial. The funeral service will be held in St. Peter's.

Those interested in coincidences point that the pope died on August 20, exactly eleven years and one month after the death of Pope Leo on July 20, 1903.

It is expected that the conclave for the election of a Pope will be held on September 3, after a delay to give time for the cardinals from several countries to arrive. Even so it is doubtful whether Cardinals Gibbons and O'Connell can reach here by that time from the United States and Cardinal Cavalcanti from Rio Janeiro owing to the partial suspension of the steamship service. It is stated however, that notwithstanding the war, special trains will be put at the disposal of the Cardinals in Europe.

The rising sun which gilded the image of St. Joseph on the wall by the pontiff's bed found the Francis can penitentiaries keeping the dead watch and murmuring prayers.

Mgr. Zamplini of the Pope's household, assisted by the secretary and the pontiff's valet laid out the body, placing the crucifix in the hands and stationed lighted candles about the bed.

Interest in Rome when the dying condition of the Pontiff was admitted was intense. Throughout the night carriages crowded the vicinity of the vatican bringing diplomats and onlookers.

MUST DENATURE SPOILED FOOD FOR SHIPMENT

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, Aug. 20.—Spoiled food products will have to be denatured before being shipped into interstate commerce in the future under a ruling announced today by the department of agriculture. This will permit the shipment of spoiled eggs for use in tanning and other spoiled substances for the manufacture of fertilizer, or oils or greases used in machinery, but will require them to be treated with denatured substance so that they cannot possibly be used for food.

PAISED BY POLICEMAN

Few Doses of Nerv-Worth Brought Good Results—The Same is True Everywhere.

Geo. W. Abbott, of 224 Broad street, this city, the well known police officer, who has been suffering from the nervous affliction, has been heard of Nerv-Worth and decided to try it. Here is what he writes about it:

"I have taken only four doses of Nerv-Worth and it certainly made me feel fine. Am taking a bottle of the remedy home to my wife who is very nervous and I am satisfied, judging from Nerv-Worth's good results in my case, that it will speedily help Mrs. Abbott."

In these words is the same evidence that has come to light wherever Nerv-Worth has been introduced—evidence of the remedy's astonishing power to act quickly. Nerv-Worth is the world's greatest nerve tonic and it is strikingly effective in the direction of prompt action. Many Newark users will find, as users everywhere else have found, that one bottle of the medicine will bring gratifying results. This is because it goes straight to the root of nervous troubles and removes their cause.

See the Nerv-Worth specialist at the T. J. Evans Drug Store, Warden Hotel building. Let him give you a sample dose. If you buy a bottle, its cost will be refunded to you if the contents fail to do you good.

No harmful drugs in Nerv-Worth.

Many a girl who turns up her nose at the sight of a broom will sweep up the aisle when she is married.

EYES TROUBLE YOU?

TRY THIS SIMPLE RECIPE.

We all know some home remedy for our eyes. And by the use of these remedies many a doctor's bill is saved and doubtless many a life. How few know what to do when the eyes become tired and ache, or feel dry and inflamed from abuse and overuse? In the morning your eyes feel rough or sticky, or they trouble you when you read. What do you do? Most of us rush off and get glasses (perhaps at some cheap store where no skill is used in fitting our eyes), which we wear often do not need at all. Thousands are wearing misfit or better discarded and other thousands can, with a little care, probably so strengthen their eyes that glasses might never be necessary. Here is a free receipt that may be relied upon to give comfort and to help the eyes of some people. It is harmless and has the enthusiastic endorsement of thousands who have used it:

5 Grains Optona (1 tablet).

2 Grains Water.

Use as an eye wash night and morning, or oftener if possible. It makes most eyes feel fine, quickly allays irritation, brightens the eyes and sharpens the vision. Many who have used it no longer feel the need of glasses. Many others have ceased to fear that they will soon be obliged to wear them. Get the Optona tablets from T. J. Evans or from your nearest druggist and prepare the solution at your own home.

Some Wives are Fine.

"All men are fools," exclaimed the pessimist. "True," agreed the optimist, "but they are not reminded so often of it if they remain single." —Puck.

HUERTA'S VIEW OF SITUATION IN EUROPEAN WAR

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

London, Aug. 20.—11:10 a. m.—Victoriano Huerta, erstwhile dictator of Mexico, was asked today what he thought of the European war. He called for a pen and paper and wrote:

"On the present war in Europe I should not speak. All that can be said is what I have already said in the book of my lady which is as follows:

"God is always with the strongest—that is to say, the strongest is always in the grace of God. It is for this that one is the strongest."

When asked to speak regarding the Mexican situation, General Huerta closed his lips tightly and made the sign of the cross as if putting the seal on. He said in English: "Excuse me, nothing."

Few people at the respectable but unostentatious hotel frequented by middle class provincial merchants where Huerta is staying, suspect that the dark man with a Spanish looking family was a few weeks ago president of an American republic.

General Huerta has not visited the Mexican legation and he has had few callers. If he has wealth neither the dress nor the scale of living of his party indicate it.
